Biographical Note
Ralph Hosenpud (1930-2008) was a photographer and journalist, skilled in film and video in addition to still photography. He trained with William H. Mortensen and was one of the last surviving masters of the Metalchrome photographic technique. Ralph grew up in San Diego, but moved to Europe in his early twenties, working as a journalist and photographer for Stern magazine and as a television cameraman for Austrian National Television (ORF). Returning to San Diego, Ralph also returned to school, attending the Regional Occupational Program at San Diego High School where he obtained a certificate in film and television production. After training with Mortensen, Hosenpud opened his own photographic studio in San Diego where he continued making both commercial and creative photographs using various processes learned from Mortensen including gum prints, pigment prints, and gelatin silver prints using the texture screen and Metalchrome processes. He produced several well-received programs of classical music and eventually took a position at the San Diego Museum of Art, where he served as a media specialist and film projectionist until his eventual retirement, at the age of 71, in 2001.

Scope and Content Note
Series one, correspondence and personal papers, contains correspondence, notes with Larry Lytle, J. Stephen Gillette, and Owen Phairis between 1986 and 2006, publications, documents related to Hosenpud’s career, student notes on Mortensen’s pigment process, and other materials.
Series two, photographic materials, includes prints by William Mortensen and photographs by Ralph Hosenpud.

Series three, research and reference files, includes instructions on photographic processes including the use of texture screens, advertisements and pages from Mortensen’s book Monsters and Madonnas, and other materials.

Series four, texture screens, contains texture screens from Mortensen and others, and a print by Mortensen.

Series five, books and audiovisual materials, includes books by and about Mortensen, as well as books about other photographers and photographic processes. Also included is a VHS tape detailing the life of William Mortensen.

Series six, artifacts and memorabilia, contains rubber stamps, original box of Valet razor Blades, jar of gold chloride, and a brush used by Mortensen in the bromoil process.

This collection was a gift of the Hosenpud Estate in 2009.

Related Materials
Along with the Hosenpud papers and archival materials, the collection contained seven photographs by William Mortensen and eighteen photographs by Hosenpud. These were transferred to the CCP fine print collection at the time of acquisition and may be accessed through the fine print catalog.

The Center has several archival collections containing materials documenting the life and career of William Mortensen. Researchers are invited to consult the:

William Mortensen Archive (AG147)
William Mortensen & George Dunham Collection (AG43)
William Mortensen Miscellaneous Acquisitions Collection (AG191)

In addition, CCP has collections acquired from a number of Mortensen’s students:

Robert Balcomb (AG180)
Anson Beman (AG185)
Richard Bennet (AG191)
R. H. Cochran, Jr. (AG191)
Ralph D. Hosenpud (AG227)
Ben Maxey (AG112)
Grey Silva (AG134)

CCP also has collections related to other photographers from the Pictorialist tradition:

Paul Anderson (AG40)
Aubrey Bodine (AG139)
Adolf Fassbender (AG168)

2 William Mortensen photographs:

Contact print (by Larry Lytle) from 4 x 5 inch Mortensen negative: image shows woman with the large book in Latin, Lucii Ferraris Prompta bibliotheca canonica, juridical, moralis, theological…. 1781-1784, the same book that is seen in Mortensen’s untitled photograph showing an elderly man’s hands on the book (see 81:093:025 in CCP print collection and illustrated on page 232 in Mortensen’s book Mortensen on the Negative (1940) “Light source in opposition to camera.”). This image in this negative was reproduced on page 81 of Mortensen’s book Flash in Modern Photography (1941) where it has the caption “Multiple source lighting, one for illumination, one for ‘fill-in’.”

[Portrait of Myrdith Mortensen, n.d.] (2 copies) Note: these may have been printed by Hosenpud from the original Mortensen negative.
Original 35 mm black and white negatives preserved by Hosenpud and later contact printed by Mortensen biographer Larry Lytle. The strips of negatives were cut into segments presumably by Mortensen. Some of the exposures were cut in half. There are 23 full-frame negatives. They have been matched up with the contact sheets for convenient viewing. (one folder)

Ralph Hosenpud photographs [note that more Hosenpud photographs are stored with the fine print collection):

“William Mortensen using electric bromoil brush,” circa 1930. (2 copies) Note: this photograph may have been printed by Hosenpud or Mortensen. It shows a beret-wearing Mortensen at work on a portrait of Jean Harlow in a studio with engraving press, lighting, backdrops, various tools, and his electric stippling brush. Another brush is visible and may be the object donated by Hosenpud.

4 x 5 inch, b/w film positive showing William Mortensen working on portrait of Jean Harlow with bromoil brush.

Various 11 x 14 inch study prints by Hosenpud. Gum prints of various portrait and travel images demonstrating color and texture variations. Some are signed and two are dated 1989 and 1990 although some images are much earlier. (35 prints)

Small study prints of portraits by Hosenpud (?). (3 prints)

“Faith,” [n.d.] Matted photograph signed Maurice Roy, La Jolla, possibly the pseudonymous name of Ralph Hosenpud. In original presentation folder of Maurice Roy studio.

4 photographs documenting Hosenpud’s San Diego photography store.

Note: Symons was a make-up artist who moved to Chicago and worked with photographer Seymour. See Seymour’s portrait of Symons on p. 58. “Over five years ago a young man came to Chicago from Hollywood, bringing with him his own make-up technique for still photographs. Our studio has worked with him in glamourizing [sic] a large percentage of our clients....One of the most important contributions he has made to the world of make-up...is his own particular copyrighted method of re-styling faces....” (p. 3).

William Mortensen: Monsters and Madonnas (VHS tape)

Note: Text from Owen Phairis’s website www.pictorialism.com (June 2009): “The VHS videotape runs about 35 minutes and stars Vincent Price and Jeanne Crain. It shows William Mortensen and George Dunham as well as Grey Silva in Mortensen’s studio. It features most of Mortensen’s famous pictures and chronicles his life. As a free bonus I am including a 16 minute video on the same tape entitled: "Creatures and Creativity". This video shows the work of a modern day pictorialist who was inspired by Mortensen’s work and faithfully carries on in his tradition.”
